Hay Fever—Well There Is Nothing Funny About It

By SIGRID ARNE
Duluth, Aug. 29—(Wide World)—
This chronicle must start with the inequivocal statement that there is nothing funny about hay fever.
This is written in a severe voice.That out of the way: I can tell you about Duluth, the hay fever capital of the world.It's a capitol in reverse. It isn't the place with the most hay fever.It's the place with the least hay fever.This unique honor fell on an unsuspecting Duluth some 40 years ago when some now unknown sneezer found that he left his sneezes at the city's portals. Hay fever victims being what they are,
he probably lost no time bruising
the news about. The next season saw a handful of "hay-ers" on Duluth's doorstep.

They seemed to work for them, too.

They arrived with wheezes. In 24 hours they joined a pinocchio game.The thing snow-balled until now
the hay-ers drop about $5,000,000
a year into Duluth's grateful pockets.Of course, all the while Duluth goes on insisting it's probably one of the world's biggest ports. That it's important in the iron trade. That it's pall of black smoke is really a sign of virility.Fact of the matter is, Duluth is just another city until Aug. 1. That seems to be the time the unhumorous hay-ers get to work on bables
all over the place.That's the time Duluth's hotels fill up with hay-ers. Their arrivals are a good time table for ragweed.
The Texas crowds show first. It works up through Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska. Then they flock in laterally: from Ohio to the Rocky Mountains.They stay until the immune relatives
book home wire: "Come home.
We had a frost last night." That's usually the end of October. But two old ladies from Iowa, who were among the original crowd 40 years ago, are conservative. They wait until the second frost.The hay-ers get to know each other, and they look forward to the annual voluntary imprisonment.
The other morning, in a Duluth hotel, I watched two hay-ers greet each other for 1942."Hi, John, when you get in?"
said one. "I've got a boat. Go fishing?""Choo-harumph, cackle, cackle," said John. He could hardly see his friend, but he got across that he'd just come in, and he'd be ready to fish two days hence. He believed this implicitly. His friend did, too.
He just galloped off with, "See you Thursday."Duluth's air is pollen free for the simple reason that the prevailing winds are off Lake Superior which blow pollen inland—out of the city. What's more, the summer is pretty nice and chilly. Thermometer stays at 70.Now the city takes ragweed seriously.
It spends $3,000 a year for 50 men who scour the ground for the stuff.They've had some queer ragweed campaigns. Once the Duluth Tribune offered an ice cream cone to every kid who brought in a hundred plants. The city ran out of ice cream before the Tribune could make good.Once the city fathers put up $100 for ragweed eradication. They offered a penny for every hundred plants. Before that pants was over, the city council had to appropriate an extra $200. You multiply 300 by 100 by 100. I'm not strong enough.There's one thing about the city.
I'm a person who can take my ragweed or leave it. But I can't take a shower at 7:30 a.m., in 78 degrees temperature. I left the place with a sneeze.

Piano Legs on Texas Gridder

Wide World Features College Station, Tex.—You've
heard of guys with piano legs. That sensation is handed to most any guy who is built sturdily downstairs.But you can take the boys literally
when they tell you Leo Daniels, of Texas A. & M., has pedal extremities resembling the underpinnings on a baby grand.Sixteen and one-half inches they measure around the calf and those rigged legs support a body under six feet and weighing 175 pounds.Leo's chest is 37 7/8 inches de-stated and 42 1/2 inches expanded so it holds more wind than the football which brought him fame.But while Daniels may look something like a piano standing still, when he seats with that ball
you forget all about the resemblance.
He runs 100 yards in ten flat and that makes him one of the

he did during his first campaign,
the all-American pickers may come

a second lieutenant in the field
artillery before another sea-

Rocks Sweep Series, Head for Pennant

By The Associated Press

Little Rock's Travelers inched toward a Southern Association pennant today after winning a tight, straight games-four from their closest rivals, the Nashville Vols, and four from the tail-end Knox-ville Smokies.

A double win over Knoxville last night, 3-1 and 6-0, moved the Rocks two and one-half games ahead of idle Nashville.

Little Rock concludes its series with the Smokies tonight, moves to Memphis for a scheduled three-game encounter, and then tangles with Nashville in a pair of doubleheaders Sunday and Monday to wind up the season.

Meanwhile, Nashville, unscheduled last night and tonight, engages Knoxville in a three-game series before meeting Little Rock in the probable championship series wind-up.

Birmingham defeated seventh-place Chattanooga, 7-6, last night in a 10-inning battle to take over fourth place, a half a game ahead of Atlanta's Crackers, whose game with New Orleans was called at the end of the third frame. Memphis was idle.

Manager Pitcher Willis Hudlin and Center fielder Tommy McBride helped the Travelers to a five-game winning streak, while McBride slammed a three-run homer in the third inning. It was one of only three base knocks the Rocks got off Herb Anderson.

The Travelers piled up a five-run lead in the first three innings of the second game, and coasted in as they pounded Floyd Stommel for a total of 14 hits. Ed Lopat blanketed the Smokies with eight safeties.

Today's games and probable pitchers:

Atlanta (Lochbaum and Cortes) at New Orleans (Turbeville and Seinois) (2).

Knoxville (unnamed) at Little Rock (Moran).

Chattanooga (unnamed) at Birmingham (unnamed).

Only games scheduled.

Stars Beaten by National

Philadelphia, Sept. 1—(P)—Thomas Froy Thompson, a slender, fast-stepping gentleman who left Tulane University three years ago to play football for cash, paid dividends for the Philadelphia Eagles—and charity—last night.

With a series of bullet-like passes, Thompson led his National League team-mates to a crushing 16-8 triumph over the college All Stars in a charity game that drew an estimated 75,000 to Municipal Stadium.

"On another trip I arrived with my truck so rumpled that it looked like a fatigued uniform. I like to sing in evening clothes when I face the men, because they are tired of uniforms, and anyway, when a man is in a dinner jacket he is strictly on his own."

"But my jacket was so wrinkled I knew I couldn't wear it as it was. Fortunately, a hostess learned of my plight and provided me with an electric iron. What happened to the tux? Nothing. It was the swellest pressing job you ever saw!"

"Going to army camps is a magnificent experience," Lanny Ross believes. "Scratch an entertainment officer and you'll find a singer," he said. "You're always met by entertainment officers and they usually turn out to be men who know all about show business and can anticipate any artist's needs. They know that the piano is in good order. They take care of you and see that everything goes as it should."

What time is left from the cigarette broadcast and the Army shows are spent with his cows. Ross is a farmer at heart, he swears, and pines for the alfalfa and the corn. All available time is spent on his country place.

BRITISH TARS NOW CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

Alexandria—(P)—Officers and sailors of the Mediterranean fleet are doing their Christmas shopping early.

There is a big demand for women's hosiery and candies. Navy men say these are hard to get in England, so they make the best gifts for wives, sweethearts and relatives. Stores are so confident packages will arrive at destinations they are guaranteeing to duplicate purchases or refund money if the packages are undeliverable.

Hank Holliday laughed at her confusion and dropped down on the grass beside Sonny. The child was an angel. He sat as still as the rock upon which he was perched, only moving when she called a rest period.

"He'll do anything you tell him to do," Hank marveled. "I believe you have him bewitched."

"He's just a very good boy," Enid insisted, smiling at the youngster.

The sun was sinking when Hank looked at his wristwatch. "Guess we'd better be going. I caught the devil for keeping Sonny out so late last Sunday. We'll take him home first, if you want to ride along."

Enid couldn't control her curiosity any longer. Besides, she had a right to know if he was going to ask her to go places with him. "Does he live with his mother?"

She was sorry the instant the words were out of her mouth. Sharp pain showed in Hank Holliday's eyes, and then something shut down across his face, hiding his emotion from her eyes.

"His mother's dead," he said slowly. "She died when Sonny was born."

"Oh, I'm sorry," Enid's voice was like a whisper. If only she hadn't forced his confidence. Now he'd dislike her for prying. The fact that he lapsed into a moody silence added to her distress.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Sept. 1—That college football season you've been hearing so much about gets under way today with the "official" opening of practice in most sections. . . . And here are a few problems for you to ponder: Pre-season practice will be a one-session schedule at a lot of schools where the academic schedule has changed; the usual opening dates; and what about late practice sessions in the dimout areas where the coaches can't turn on the lights?

And while you're at it, what team will be known as "Army" —

West Point, the Army All-Stars (east and west units) or the camp teams that survive the blitz against spectator sports? . . . If the folks in Washington are serious about cancelling the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia, why not let them play without spectators and make the most of the broadcast that has been sold for $100,000?

Service Dept.

Hard Luck Tale: Lieut. Eddie Duchen, who was one of the first to contribute to the special Army emergency relief fund, had two of those $100 tickets for the Bears-All Stars grid game and he had a date, but he couldn't get leave from the naval training school at Northwestern U. . . . The 88th Infantry Division, which has been serving in the Aleutian Islands, has the makings of a swell football team in Lieutenant James J. Johnston, Santa Clara, Aubrey Austin, Stanford; William Rout, Texas A & M and privates Tom Hanley, Oklahoma Aggies; Joe Behot, Villanova, and Joe Matis, Mississippi State.

Agricultural Note: Larry MacPhail, boss man of the Dodgers, recently won a couple of blue ribbons at a Maryland fair with his Aberdeen Angus cattle.

Bill Terry of the Giants has a fine herd of Jersey's. . . . And Leo Durocher, Frank Frisch and Jimmie Dykes have been known to raise a beef now and then.

One-Minute Sports Page

The Baltimore fight promoters, who have had a pretty good thing in the Lee Rodak-Sluggo white scheds, want to put on another episode this time at 15 rounds.

Out of 101,103 spectators at the Bears-All Stars game at Chicago Friday, not one was thoughtful enough to correct Commissioner Elmer Layden when he persisted in calling the most valuable player award he was presenting to Don Hudson the "All-Star trophy."

According to the American field service, which has just received a $10,000 donation from Tom Yawkey, Toms Boston Red Sox are second in the American league "behind the New York Giants."

Tigers Put Out of Race by the Yanks

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

One by one the also rans are bowing out of even a mathematical chance at the pennants as the September sprint stars in the major leagues.

The Detroit Tigers dropped by the wayside yesterday, leaving only the first division in the American League still contending with the New York Yankees. The Pittsburgh Pirates may go today, leaving the National League with the same situation, and even the Cincinnati Reds picked for the pennant by some observers last spring may meet their doom this week.

The Yankees themselves took care of the disposal of Detroit with an 8-3 triumph that was Atley Donald's first over the Tigers in five years of labor in the American League.

The quiet righthander pitched two-hit shutout ball for eight innings, but his jinx threatened to catch up with him in the ninth, when the Tigers rushed in to put out the fire. However, the world champions had provided amply for such an emergency by scoring early and often on a dozen hits, two of them homers by Joe Gordon and Phil Rizzuto, each with one aboard.

The Pirates, who are within half a game of being eliminated from a pennant chance, were nosed out 5-4 in 11 innings by Brooklyn and the Dodgers have a chance to apply the finishing punch today.

Mashing of Jap Military Caste One of War's Goals

Must Police
Beaten Nation,
Declares Grew

By DWIGHT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Joseph C. Grew's call for the destruction of Japanese militarism has stated in plain, blunt terms the nature of the unprecedented task that lies before us.

"It's a declaration that haunts the imagination, especially coming as it does from one who spent a decade in Nippon as our ambassador, striving to prevent the growing influence of barbarism from disrupting peace. It means the pulling to pieces of the social structure of a great and ancient nation, the liquidation of the individuals who head the military caste, and then the colossal undertaking of rebuilding that nation into a useful unit of world society."

We are talking about one of the greatest epochs of world history. Mr. Grew's idea isn't new, of course, but being post-war problem, it has been pushed into the background in the heat of immediate battles. As a matter of fact what he says of Japan applies also very exactly to Germany, and I wonder if his words echo the Al lled determination to smash Hitler and Hitlerism. Here, at any rate, he put it in his broadcast Sunday:

"That Japanese military machine and military caste and military system must be utterly crushed, their credit and predominance must be utterly broken, for the future safety and welfare of civilization and humanity. Let's put it in a nutshell: There is not sufficient room in the area of the Pacific ocean for a peaceful America, for any and all of the peace-loving United Nations, and a swashbuckling Japan."

Substitute German for Japan and Europe for Pacific area, and this edict fits Hitler, the master gangster, who is trying to destroy Christian civilization and substitute paganism and slavery. Strange as those words may sound, that is the purpose of this man with the abnormal mind.

How are we to carry out this elimination of militarism and the remolding of the minds of whole nations? Hitler is trying to achieve this end in some countries by wholesale massacre of recalcitrant grownups and the taking of the brains of the children. That's the sort of thing we are fighting to destroy.

Well, naturally it's impossible at this stage in the war for Allied governments to work out precisely how they will have to proceed with subtlety in which we failed after the last World War. The consensus of Allied statesmen and observers, however, seems to point generally in this direction:

"Japan and Germany will have to be stripped of every vestige of military equipment — land, air and water. Their navies, military air forces and armies must be wiped out, and their arsenals must be destroyed."

Hitler and all the other militaristic leaders of both countries must be permanently removed from the picture. Some say hang 'em, but perhaps more mature judgment will recommend that they be put behind prison walls for life.

When the Allied nations will have to establish military control of Japan and Germany — actually police them with troops. Our experience with Germany after the prospects of checking Rommel and counter-attacking in force appear good although British official comment is guarded.

In this battle Rommel, master of maneuver, is denied space necessary for great flanking movements which played so large a part in his previous victories.

The danger to Alexander is admitted here but there is an indication that well-informed British critics believe General Sir Harold Alexander, Britain's Middle East commander, is capable not only of stopping the Axis drive but of administering a sharp defeat.

Such a development might be the prelude to a series of offensive operations aimed at throwing the enemy out of North Africa and opening the way to overseas operations by Allied forces.

The British War office, announcing the new offensive, said it was too early to tell whether it was "on major scale," but all the signs of recent weeks indicated that Rommel was about to test Prime Minister Winston Churchill's recent pledge to "fight for Egypt and the Nile valley as if it were the soul of England itself."

Today's Cairo communiqué added new details to the picture of the ground fighting, beyond the fact that "strong enemy columns" were engaged.

The Italian high command issued its shortest communiqué in months, reporting aside from bombing operations, only "activity of advanced units" and the taking of "many prisoners."

Quiet for two months, except for the occasional fire of patrolling machine-guns and the daily crump of bombs, the southern end of the battlefield has been alive for more than 24 hours with the thunder of tank, artillery and infantry fighting.

The British war office announced:

"All bathing is a good time to apply Mexican Heat Powder to relieve heat rash, and help prevent it. Absorbs perspiration, often the cause of irritation. Always demand Mexican Heat Powder."
